

Media ownership rules must change in order for there to be any true local influence over local media. Consolidation has a chilling effect on creativity. It also takes control over the very dialog about it's own control. I don't want to wake up some day and find myself living in a world where all the news and entertainment is essentially coming from one company with shell companies like tenticals reaching all over our formerly free thinking country. Radio especially is very uninteresting to me because it all sounds the same. Public radio is just about the only thing worth listening to now. We need more access to the airwaves for voices that do not scream commercialism. Years ago when I went camping with my family we would listen at night to various searlsed radio shows. Now there is no room for these on commercial radio. With all the airspace out there you would think there would be more room for these non commercial voices. Please make room for them. I won't miss the drivel that now spills out of my radio on most commercial stations if there were one or two less in my region. More public local access and less corporate control!
